The Epidemic of Crime.

Whence comes this epidemic of suicides and murders. Recent discussions have named six causes. Hon C H Reeve of Indiana charges it to infidel teachings. Hold n that hopelessness of a future state cripples fortitude for bearing life's ills. Another declares suffering from the universal business depression the cause. A third writer attributes it to heredity, insanity; a physician thinks much of the tendency is incurred while temperance advocates lay the responsibility upon strong drink.

Free thinkers have committed suicide but so have orthodox churchmen. Financial distress have beset many but the wealthy have also taken their life.

Insanity and dissipation have preceded suicides and family murders.

One feature common to almost every such crime challenges attention. Well nigh every report of suicide and family murder mentions the perpetrator as having for some time been subject to melancholy. Whence comes this? All recognized medical authorities tell us that the [illegible] assumes the brain is always kindled by derangements of digestion, that good digestion is impossible without pure blood and pure blood is never known when the liver and kidneys are out of order. Under such circumstances a preventive should be sought, and for this Warner's safe cure is sovereign—a fact conceded by the best authorities in the land, and it is especially commended by the celebrated Dr Dio Lewis.—Rochester Democrat.

An Ex-Consul Tells a Strange Story of Persecution.

WHOLESALE MURDERER LYNCHED

The Proposed Lease of the O R & N Lines—The Wabash Strike—Events in the Sporting World—The Day's Record

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—A startling theory is now current in this city and Camden as to the cause of the recent explosion on the river steamer Samuel Felton, by which sixteen persons were more or less injured and one killed. The story is that A. Preller, a victim of the explosion, was the man who placed a dynamite cartridge under the steamer's boiler, and that his object was to profit by accident policies which he held. Spear resided with his family in Camden, and it is now known that he held nearly $35,000 insurance on his life and accident policies, and some insurance agents say the figures were much higher. Among the policies are a $10,000 accident policy in the United States Mutual of New York, and one for $5,000 in the Travelers' company of Hartford, Conn. He also held a $10,000 life policy in the Mutual Reserve Fund company of New York. Agents of the insurance companies mentioned are reticent about the matter and say that up to this time no steps have been taken officially to prove the death of the man. It is known that several New York insurance men have been in this city, carefully investigating the case.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Chief of Detectives Kelley received an anonymous note this morning in reference to the explosion on the steamer Felton, as follows:

"The Felton explosion was from dynamite. The people who had it did not intend to explode it, but were on the boat at the time and taking it home to use. It will be impossible for you to discover them, but to remove suspicion of evil intent from others this statement is made. Your investigation should be to that end."

The note was evidently written in a disguised hand.

THE HOP CROP DAMAGED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—An Albany special says: In Schoharie and Otsego counties hops are the greatest product. Within a week everything was favorable to a large yield, but picking had scarcely begun when the rainy period set in. Examination of the lower in the past two days shows in a large number of yards that rust has injured it. The market has been flat for several weeks, with prices below the cost of production. Under these circumstances destruction of a part of the crop would be a benefit rather than a calamity. Around Cherry Valley it is reported that 100,000 pounds has been destroyed by rust and wind. Some sales were made at eight and a half cents. The Schoharie acreage has increased 10 per cent. Many growing crops in this region have been contracted for at ten cents, and no doubt many thousand bales have been sold in this state within the last few weeks at that price.

THE NEW ELECTRIC MOTOR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The new electric motor Ben Franklin is expected to be publicly tested on the elevated road Monday. Its weight is one half that of the elevated road locomotives, and it is claimed it will save 50 per cent. of the cost of fuel. A preliminary experiment last night gave the utmost satisfaction to the electricians. On a very light current twenty-five miles an hour was attained. There was no jarring, puffing or screaming. At the trial next week it will draw two loaded cars. Mr. Daft, the inventor, says men who control the railways of the country will be there. It will be the heaviest crowd of men, financially, ever in one car. He expects to have $ [illegible] represented.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR ON TOP.

GALVESTON, Aug. 28.—The strike on the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe railroad at this point has assumed a more serious phase. The freight traffic of the road is virtually suspended. The Knights of Labor have control of the yards and shops of the company and have killed all the engines in the shops that have arrived since the strike began, except passenger engines. Passenger trains are not molested. The strikers are orderly. Officers of the company to-day asked the mayor for police protection, and a force of policemen is on duty around the yards and depots. At Temple the strikers prevented the building on of two cars containing perishable freight to passenger trains.

A SUCCESSFUL STRIKE.

GALVESTON, Aug. 28.—Special news from Tyler says: The Knights of Labor held an enthusiastic meeting in their hall this evening. They demand from the Texas & St. Louis railroad company three months' wages now due. The company has about conceded to their demands, and the men will resume work as soon as they can arrange matters so as to act with uniformity. The Knights have been remarkably quiet and orderly since beginning the strike.

OUR BIG WOOL SHIPMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—The Press learns that half a million pounds of wool left Portland, Or., last Monday for this city. It is said to be the largest fill shipment ever made from the coast. A representative of [illegible] "Everybody wants wool because there is a better business feeling in all lines of dry goods and woolen yarns than there has been for years."

THE RUN SUBSIDES.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—The excitement at the main and branch offices of the Spring Garden bank has greatly subsided. A line of about fifty depositors was at the main office at 10 o'clock this morning, but there was no rush as for the past two days. There was no unusual crowd at the branch office.

BUSINESS FAILURE.

DENVER, Aug. 28.—W. M. Howarth's hardware store at Central City, dry goods store at Pueblo and cattle in various parts of the state were attached to-day. Other attachments are to follow. It is estimated that his liabilities are $500,000 with nominal assets of $100,000. The actual assets are unknown.

FOURTEEN LIVES LOST.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 27.—Fourteen lives were lost by the wreck of three Beaufort pilot boats—the P. W. Schober, the Walter Smith and the John Stoddard—in the storm Tuesday. Their bodies have not been recovered.

THE WEEK'S FAILURES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Business failures the last seven days were 198 against 177 the previous week.

OUTRAGEOUS TREATMENT

An Ex Consul at Port au Prince Tells a Strange Story of his Wrongs.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—C. A. VanBokelen of New York, ex United States consul-general at Port au Prince, arrived in this city to-day as a passenger on the American steamer Haytien Republic, from Port au Prince. He tells a remarkable story of outrageous treatment at the hands of the Haytien government. While acting as consul general Mr. VanBokelen married a Haytien woman, and at the end of his term of office took up the business of dealing in the paper money of the native government. At this [illegible] considerable money and then desired to [illegible] this [illegible] Hayti [illegible] family of Hayti. He [illegible] the law, however, and purchased property in Port au Prince, which transaction reaching the ear of President Salomon, chief magistrate of the republic, he caused VanBokelen's arrest and had him locked up in a wretched dungeon in the government prison at Port au Prince. Here his only companions were negroes of the most debased type, many of them being murderers and desperadoes, and very often the prison, which is a small and wretched structure, built on low, swampy ground, was crowded with nearly 300 prisoners. Mr. Van Bokelen being the only white man among them. His dungeon was a narrow stone cell which measures eight feet by four, and the walls were constantly dripping with water. There the unfortunate ex-consul [illegible] from [illegible] March 1884 until [illegible] the place being infested with [illegible]. His health, [illegible] now entirely broken down, and he has become a [illegible] both consumption and chronic catarrh, which his face is pale and haggard and gives very evidence of [illegible] suffering.

Mr. VanBokelen says that no attention was paid by President Salomon to letters from Secretary [illegible] and he was not released until Secretary Bayard wrote to the Haytien president demanding his instant release, stating at the same time that if he was not released a United States man-of-war would be dispatched to Port Au Prince [illegible] to adopt severe measures. [illegible] says. The truth of the story is vouched for by the captain and purser of the steamer.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR

HANGED BY A MOB.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Dispatches printed here from San Antonio, Texas, say: Information from San Marcos reports that a mob of seventy-five persons at Blanco on Wednesday night went to the jail and demanded of Sheriff Jackson the keys. Jackson said he would not give them, and he also declared he could not prevent them. After a severe struggle Jackson was overpowered, the keys were found on his person, and the mob entered the jail and took out Lockie, the man who committed a wholesale murder in Jackson county a few days ago. They hanged him after obtaining from him a statement in regard to his crimes. Lockie made a full confession and said he had intended to kill all the members of three or four families besides those he murdered, and was prevented from doing so only by his cartridges giving out.

NEWS OF A LYNCHING CONFIRMED.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 28.—The reported lynching of A. E. Lockie, the quintuple murderer, at Blanco City, is confirmed by a stage driver who arrived here to-day. He says that at two o'clock on Wednesday night a party of about sixty unmasked men stormed the jail, overpowered the sheriff and tarred Lockie to a neighboring grove. When asked whether he had ruined his daughter as was rumored, Lockie replied that he had not. He did not inquire whether his daughter was dead or not, but was under the impression that he killed six persons outright instead of five, for he said he had intended killing six more and had not done so only because his ammunition gave out. At this point the mob not caring to hear more of his blood thirsty recital strung him up to a tree and left him hanging there. The driver also stated that the body was still hanging to the tree when he passed the spot at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

POLICEMEN KILLED BY BURGLARS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A mysterious double murder was committed about 12 o'clock last night at Geneva, Kane county, Illinois, the victims being two of the three officers who constitute the police force of the town. The deed was committed right in the center of the place, near the court house. Some dozen shots were heard by residents in the neighborhood in quiet succession at about midnight, but no one left his bed to find out the cause of the turmoil, and it was ascribed to a party of merry makers returning from a picnic. [illegible] about 1 A. M. to find the bodies of the murdered men and raise the alarm. Officer M[illegible] was found dead with a bullet hole in the region of the heart. His revolver with five of its chambers emptied lay near him. Several rods away lay Officer Grant in a dying condition. Several burglaries have recently been committed and it is supposed the officers were killed by burglars in an attempt to arrest them.

A MISSOURI EXECUTION.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Samuel W. Collins was hanged this morning at Bowling Green, Mo., for the murder of a man named Owen Utterback. Mrs. Utterback, widow of the murdered man, with her two sons aged 5 and 8 years respectively, were present at the execution. The murder occurred in September 1884. Collins had heard that Utterback had been slandering his wife, and he sought him out and killed him for this offense. The execution passed off quietly in the presence of a large crowd.

INSISTS THAT HE SAW PRELLER.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—B. G. Rodgers, the man who affirms that he saw Preller alive last May, adheres to his statement. He says that he will go to St. Louis and swear that a man calling himself Arthur C. Preller, whom he met at the Continental hotel last March, and the man who declared that his name was Preller in Sansome street in May are one and the same person.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28.—Henderson (colored), prominent in the days of reconstruction and now occupying the position of United States collector of pensions for the widows and orphans of deceased soldiers, was arrested at Lake Providence to-day charged with forging the name of a deceased colored widow to a pension claim and forging the names of the witnesses thereto.

GOODWIN PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 28.—Henry K. Goodwin, who yesterday shot and killed Albert D. Swan, was arraigned this morning and pleaded not guilty. He was then committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury. He is very cool and collected and spends his time in reading and chatting with officers in the jail.

A DISHONEST TICKET AGENT.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—Ralph, assistant ticket agent of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago ticket office at Lafayette, disappeared last night, taking about $7000 of the company's money, the proceeds of the sale of excursion tickets yesterday.

When the constable found Sullivan and notified him to appear before Judge Huston, the pugilist started immediately to the city to comply with the order. He did not, however, appear in person before the court, but his attorney appeared and gave a bond of $1000 in his behalf not to engage in a prize fight. The statute against glove contests has an exception in the case of public gymnasiums or athletic clubs, and it is claimed that this contest will be under the auspices of the Chester Park Athletic club recently formed. RAILROAD NOTES

THE [illegible]

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Times [illegible] special says: The [illegible] lease of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company will be published here to-morrow. The papers, although consisting of only two articles, cover forty-three pages of printed matter. After devoting eight pages to a protracted memorandum of the possessions and indebtedness of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company, in which the only items of interest are that there are 657 miles of constructed road, $6,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, $1,200,000 in scrip certificates and $ [illegible] 000 debentures outstanding, and that the road contemplates an issue of a rate not exceeding $25,000 per mile of the road of new consolidated [illegible] dated June 1 of this year and payable within forty years.

Article 1 provides that the road and all its belongings shall be leased to the Northern Pacific, the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line railway companies for 99 years, the considerations being a cash transfer of $1 and an agreement to fulfill certain provisions. In brief, the Oregon road becomes a part of the Northern Pacific system and the latter assumes the former's obligations and guarantees its fixed charges. The lease is to terminate by default for ninety days in any of the covenants by either party to the indenture.

A director of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company said to-day that the lease might be abandoned, as President Smith was not satisfied with the Northern Pacific's terms, and had stated his objections to President Harris.

THE WABASH STRIKE.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—The result of the conference in New York between General Manager Talmage of the Wabash railway and the national executive committee of the Knights of Labor, is received with satisfaction by local members of the organization. It is stated that at a conference to be held here next Thursday the Knights will demand the reinstatement of all members of their order who were suspended or discharged June 1, last, and will require a pledge from Talmage approved by the United States court that the terms of the agreement will be kept inviolate.

THE ROCK ISLAND WILL WITHDRAW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Rumors of an intention on the part of the Rock Island road to withdraw from the Colorado-Utah pool were confirmed to-day. The statement is authoritatively made that the Rock Island, owing to its dissatisfaction with the recent award of percentages, has decided to give immediate notice of withdrawal.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.
Admirable Results in Fevers.

WASHINGTON.

A Letter from Ex-Secretary Lincoln to Gen. Sheridan.

THE LATTER SHARPLY CENSURED

An Ex Pension Agent Refuses to Settle with the Government—The Case of Minister Keiley Explained—Washington Notes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Some time ago it was stated in a dispatch telegraphed from this city that a conflict of authority had arisen between Secretary Endicott and Lieutenant General Sheridan; also that a similar conflict had occurred between ex-Secretary Lincoln and the lieutenant general of the army. It was also stated that the ex-secretary [illegible] Sheridan [illegible] That ex-Secretary Lincoln did communicate with Gen. Sheridan is shown by the following letter dated January [illegible] 1884, which will be published to-morrow by the Army and Navy Journal:

"General: About a month ago I had occasion to ask your consideration of a question as to whether in issuing an order to the quartermaster general you had not overlooked some considerations as to the proper channel of command for the [illegible] of which by him. In the case of an officer of his department detailed on the staff of Major General Hancock you had sharply criticised the quartermaster-general. I said then that I saw no reason to dissent from the remarks [illegible] direction that there are not two channels of command of a staff officer serving with troops, one through the line of general officers and the other through the chief of their staff department, in so far at least as the command relates to or would interfere with or obstruct the transaction of any business which by said regulation or orders has been committed to officers of the line in command of troops. But I wish to invite your consideration as to whether, in making the order of October [illegible] to the quartermaster general, instead of recommending to the secretary of war action by him, you have not overlooked the application of your remarks to the case of the quartermaster general, who has not been and could not be detached from the staff (to use a military phrase) of the secretary of war and authorized to obey the orders of any officer of the army whomsoever without abandonment by the secretary of war of the duties specifically imposed upon him by law. He and subordinate officers of his department not detailed to serve under commanding officers are necessarily under the direction of the secretary of war. Not having heard from you to the contrary I supposed you had acquiesced in my view that the quartermaster general and officers of his department not ordered by the secretary of war to report for duty to military commanders are not subject to the orders of the lieutenant general and the same principle applies to all staff departments whose heads are chiefs of bureaus of the war department, excepting the inspector general and the adjutant general."

SHERIDAN'S BRIEF REPLY DISPUTED.

Recently the commissary general of subsistence having in a communication to me taken exception to receiving orders from the lieutenant general you remarked thereupon as follows: "I have no further remark to make upon the disrespectful attitude assumed by the commissary general of subsistence. It does not admit of argument in regard to the relation he bears to the commanding general of the army. He is a part of the army of the United States and the president placed me in command of the army by an order dated at the war department Washington, October 1, 1883." [illegible] to make my point upon the fact that the only expression of your view of the subject made after my letter [illegible] disposes of [illegible] remarks in that letter [illegible] out to you that in my opinion [illegible] Every officer in the army, as the army is described in section 1094, R. S., under the terms of assignment to duty under which you are now acting, is not tenable, and that if it were, it would be an imperative duty on the part of the secretary of war to recommend to the president such change of terms in your assignment to duty as would prevent the possibility of such claim. [illegible] as I am advised without precedent in our history. I do not find in the statutes any definition of the duties of the lieutenant general, or indeed any general officer other than chiefs of bureaus, [illegible] have by law the rank of general officers. Their [illegible] established, and standing [illegible] may appropriately be assigned to them.

IN CONCLUSION.

The secretary quotes at length from precedents and general orders showing that chiefs of staff corps departments and bureaus were considered as withdrawn from the orders of the general-commander of the army. He considers that the secretary of war is by law charged with civil matters of which the principal relate to river and harbor works, also with many matters growing out of the late rebellion. The general fiscal administration relating to the army through the bureaus of the war department and the chiefs of these bureaus and their subordinates, must necessarily be under the exclusive orders of the secretary of war. As to the duties of the commanding general Mr. Lincoln considers that officer an adviser of the secretary of war in a multitude of matters in which however final action must be upon the responsibility of the secretary. He incloses a memorandum list of the orders which he considers as having been irregularly issued by the commanding general, and concludes:

"I have no wish to aggrandize my own exclusive functions or diminish your command. My personal friendship as well as my high respect for you as an officer would alike prevent such action; but it is a duty I cannot avoid to preserve intact the exclusive authority required by law regulations [illegible] to be exercised by the secretary of war and take such measures as will without fail accomplish that end. I trust this letter will be the only measure required for the purpose."

Within the past few days copies of the above communication have been sent to the lieutenant general of the army and generals commanding various divisions.

A STRANGE DELAY

An Ex Pension Agent Refuses to Settle with the Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—It is stated at the treasury department that Wilson Norris, late pension agent at Philadelphia, is causing the accounting officers of that department no little trouble because of his failure to forward his account for the month of June last. Mr. Norris was removed July [illegible] and according to the treasurer's report had up to June 1 failed to account for an advance amounting to $167,117. Judge Williams, third auditor of the treasury, has several times requested him to forward his accounts for examination, but so far Mr. Norris has not taken the slightest notice of his letter. In making his last formal request the third auditor called Norris's attention to sections 3622 and [illegible] of the revised statutes which require that all officers who hold public funds for [illegible] shall render a monthly account within [illegible] days after the expiration of each successive [illegible] that officers who fail to comply with the [illegible] guilty [illegible] and imprisonment [illegible]

AN EXPLANATION.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Col. Norris, ex-pension agent, being out of town, Mr. Huckle, his clerk, who has been preparing the accounts of the pension office for the last months of his chief's occupancy of the place, was seen this evening and said that only one letter had been received from the department since Col. Norris left his position, and that within a few days. The $167,117 referred to in the dispatch, said Mr. Huckle, has never been in the possession of Col. Norris, nor could he draw against it. The money is at the present moment in the [illegible]. It is there to Col. Norris' credit, but he [illegible] now or at any time since his removal draw it. The money is to his credit as disbursing officer, and as he is no longer an official he has no power over it. Of course all the accounts call for this money, remains to his credit, and cannot be covered [illegible] the treasury until those accounts are presented and audited. The delay in presenting these accounts is owing to the fact that they are being made up by Col. Norris' own clerks, and they [illegible] will be sent down in a few days.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Mr. Keiley was at the state department to-day settling up his accounts. He has not yet resigned as United States minister to Austria [illegible]. He does not desire another appointment [illegible] that service [illegible] it was at his own suggestion that he did not go to Vienna when opposition was shown to him but returned to this country.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Mr. Keiley's appointment to the public service was first solicited by Lincoln [illegible]. He was endorsed by the entire Virginia delegation. The president appointed him as minister to Italy, and that government sent a protest to the authorities here against the appointment because of his speech a number of years ago at Richmond [illegible] against Victor Emmanuel. After the presentation of the protest Mr. Keiley voluntarily resigned, saying that he did not wish to embarrass the administration. He was then appointed minister to Vienna. Within two days after the appointment was announced the Austrian minister of this city intimated that it would be disagreeable to Mr. and Mrs. Keiley to live in Vienna, because the latter was a Jewess. Secretary Bayard sent a communication to the foreign representative, in which he spoke only of the complaint against Mr. Keiley. The latter was [illegible] and [illegible] taking the ground that [illegible] a complaint. Afterward there came a cablegram from Mr. Lee, charge d'affaires at Vienna, saying the Austrian government had refused to receive Keiley and had declined to give any reason for the action. No intimation of the cause has been received here. There is a suspicion, however, that the Italian minister at Vienna is the direct cause of the Austrian government's final action. The question whether or not some one shall be appointed United States minister to Austria has not been considered by either the president or secretary of state since the refusal of Austria to receive Mr. Keiley.

Ross made a preemption filing when an alien, supposing that the declaration of the intention of his father, who had not been naturalized, was sufficient to qualify him as preemptor upon attaining his majority. Before he discovered his error and filed again for the tract Poole made a homestead entry upon it. The secretary held that Ross' [illegible] of his qualification came too late to validate the intervening rights of Poole.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 28.—The steamer Nova Scotia, which arrived here to-day from Liverpool, brought from St. John, N. F., Capt. Seablossom and twenty-one of the crew of the American whaling brig Isabella, which was lost in the ice on Hudson's strait. The Isabella sailed from New Bedford May 2, 1884, and entered an ice pack on July 11. She was crushed in the ice on the 20th of the same month, twenty miles north of North Bluff. All of the crew, twenty three in number, and a stowaway, were saved. They wandered about on the ice for four days, suffering intensely from cold. They finally reached a settlement called Acalier and remained there until September, when the whaler Era arrived at the place, and they were all taken on board and kindly cared for. But owing to the scarcity of food on the Era both crews had to be put on short allowance. While on board the Era one of the Isabella's crew, a Swede named Pilaro, died of scurvy. The rest of the men are all in good health.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CONVENTION

Address on the Inter-Oceanic Problem and its Solution—Other Questions.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 28.—The following is an abstract of an address by Capt. Carthell on "The Inter-Oceanic Problem and its Scientific Solution," at the social science convention to-day:

The accomplishments of science increase its requirements. The most serious obstacles have been overcome—all except this one that lies in the center of the world, a narrow neck of land uniting two continents and allowing no passage. All interests and the free interchange of commerce is severely hampered by this inter-oceanic problem. The great expense of trans-shipment excludes the extensive use of the ordinary railroad, so the cereals of the Pacific and other products, agricultural and manufactured, traverse long and expensive routes to markets. Our manufacturers, who [illegible] over $5,000,000,000 worth annually, export [illegible] only [illegible] per cent, cannot participate in $[illegible] 000,000 worth of trade in the far Pacific countries. The American isthmus has been considered for [illegible] It has been [illegible] several [illegible] and plans [illegible] submitted.

[illegible]

[illegible] hardly be [illegible] Its commercial advantages are evidenced by the fact that the nearer the axial line of productions, passing through Hong Kong, San Francisco, New York and Liverpool, and its nautical conditions are [illegible] more favorable. The true scientific method is that which transfers ships from ocean to ocean [illegible] promptly and economically. This method is a ship railway. Its details embrace a lifting dock, with a system of hydraulic rams arranged so as to hold up and perfectly distribute the weight of vessels, a traditional system of carriages [illegible] to be placed in the vessels' hulls; a road bed to be built of materials to be found along the whole length of the railway, the superstructure to be of long steel ties on which [illegible] heavy steel rails weighing about 100 pounds per lineal yard. [illegible] with a capacity of 4000 gross tons [illegible] level will haul the ships across the isthmus. Three [illegible] tons [illegible] [illegible] twenty feet per mile. Abrupt changes in the [illegible] of the road [illegible] by following the valleys are accomplished by means of [illegible] floating [illegible] distinguished [illegible] who have examined the plan testify to its [illegible] and to [illegible]

OTHER ADVANTAGES.

The time has passed [illegible] feasibility of the method and there [illegible] its construction and operation [illegible] considered. The ordinary [illegible] railroads [illegible] cost [illegible] now to [illegible] the canal and railroad [illegible] that the latter is [illegible] of the former [illegible] [illegible] Instead of the average load of fifteen tons [illegible] thirty for the [illegible] on 1500 tons [illegible] concentrated [illegible] freight will be [illegible] from one to two miles on an ocean canal to [illegible] [illegible] the expenses of transportation by canal is [illegible] that of a railroad. Its strategic advantages [illegible] important and obvious.

Seven million tons of freight are in sight for transportation over the railway in 1885. The railway can be built and equipped in four years' time and $50,000,000 in cash will complete everything ready for business. The estimate in stock and bonds, allowing for all possible contingencies, is $75,000,000. Even with only 4,000,000 tons the net profit would be 14½ per cent. The beneficial results can not be over-estimated."

The address is printed in full, and is illustrated by slates of plans and maps of the world and the isthmus.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

During the session the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The attention of this association has been called to articles in the public press purporting to give, and presumably by authority, an official report of the commission appointed by the treasury department to investigate the condition of the United States coast survey office, in which report the value of certain scientific work is designated as meagre; and

WHEREAS, This association desires to express a hope that the decision as to the utility of such scientific work may be referred to scientific men.

Resolved, That the American Association for the Advancement of Science is in earnest sympathy with the government in its every intent to secure the greatest possible efficiency of the public service.

Resolved, That the value of scientific work performed in the various departments of the government can be best judged by scientific men.

Resolved, That this association desires to express its earnest approval of the extent and high character of the work performed by the United States coast survey and to express the hope that such valuable work may not be interrupted.

Resolved, That this association expresses also a hope that the government will not allow any technical rule to be established and shall necessarily confine its scientific work to its own employes.

Resolved, That in the opinion of the American Association for the Advancement of Science the head of the coast survey, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, should have the highest possible standing among scientific men and should command their confidence.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions shall be prepared by the general secretary and certified to by the president of the association and by the permanent secretary, and shall be forwarded to the president of the United States and the secretary of the treasury and given to the press.

VARIOUS QUESTIONS.

The section on mathematics and astronomy considered papers on the planets, the sun and astronomical instruments and calculations.

The physicists heard and discussed several papers, among which were three by Professor A. E. Dolbear of Tufts college, who is an inventor of a telephone, in which are considered some questions in electricity.

Like all the other sections that in chemistry was delayed a good while by discussion in the general meeting this morning, and the members were unable to reach those parts of the programme which are of general interest, the discussion on students' laboratory course in the laboratory not being brought up.

The mechanical science meeting this afternoon opened with a long discussion. The last paper of the morning was that by Frank C. Wagner, on "Electric Light Tests." Professor M. E. Cooley read a paper on a new smoke burning device which is to consume all gases by the admission of fine jets of steam to incandescent coal. Professor Robert Thurston [illegible] read an important paper on cylinder condensation in steam engines.

THE GEOLOGISTS.

The geologists heard a paper by Henry J. Williams descriptive of the upper Devonian rocks. President Edward A. Orton of Columbus, O., read a paper describing the new oil and gas fields of northwestern Ohio. Of oil there is but a small product but gas is found in large quantities. At Findlay there are six wells with a yield of between [illegible],000,000 and 4,000,000 feet per day. At Bowling Green there are three more, and also at Fremont, making a total daily product of about 4,000,000 cubic feet. He also touched on the source of the product, its horizon being some distance below the fields of eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. The last paper in this section was "The Loess and Drift Clays" by William McAdams of Alton, Ill.

Among the biological papers were "Parasites [illegible]" by Professor C. V. Riley, and a paper by Professor T. J. Burrill on "The Mechanical Injury to Trees by Cold," in the latter of which in the freezing of water and its composition with other matters is given an explanation of [illegible]

Section H continued its anthropological discussions by completing its consideration of the "Laws and Relationships of the Omahas." The Dakota Indian mounds and some other topics concerning American aboriginal customs occupied the earlier part of the day.

The afternoon meeting of the economic scientists opened with a paper by Gov. John W. Hoyt on "The need of a systematic organization of the departments of the government in the interest of science and public economy." He advocates sweeping changes in the present executive branch of the government, suggesting new departments and radical changes in those now existing, all being with a view to cheapen the administration of the government.

FUNERAL OF ADMIRAL COURBET.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The remains of Admiral Courbet were interred to-day in the hotel des Invalides. A large assemblage attended the burial ceremonies notwithstanding the weather was inclement.

The edifice was heavily draped with mourning and presented a most impressive appearance. A large model of the Bayard, the flagship of the French fleet commanded in China by the deceased, had been constructed in front of the building. The coffin was placed in a colossal sarcophagus, which was ornamented at the corners by statues of Faith, Hope and Charity and Religion, and which bore escutcheons emblazoned with scenes of battle in which Admiral Courbet had taken a leading part. This was lighted by incense burners and tapers which emitted green flames and cast a weird glimmering through the darkened recess of the chapel where the body lay. During the funeral ceremonies troops paraded slowly up and down the esplanade and afterwards filed past the coffin.

THE FILIBUSTERING EXPEDITION.

It was reported that a few men were seen by some night watchmen [illegible] toward a small pier in the upper harbor accessible only to small boats, carrying packages looking as if they contained carbines. The Spanish consul says that the schooner Emma M. [illegible] which was reported as having sailed for [illegible] Mexico, took perhaps fifteen or twenty [illegible] from shore [illegible] the harbor and that they [illegible] gone to Cuba. The revenue cutter Dix was at Cedar Keys and there was no vessel here to send in pursuit.

Afraid of Civil Service

Boston Herald (Mugwump)

On the civil service question the Buckeye democrats are dumb. Unwilling to approve and afraid to condemn, they stand in sulky silence. The [illegible] of their perceptions outweighs the [illegible] of their desires. We welcome the indication of a straw flying in the right direction. The platform professes hearty commendation of President Cleveland, but the endorsement is manifestly [illegible] from the teeth outward.

New Hampshire Monuments

Dover N. H. Democrat

If the state of New Hampshire erects a monument to the memory of Matthew Thornton there is no reason why [illegible] should not be built over the grave of the gallant General John Sullivan of revolutionary fame, whose dust reposes on Broth hill in Durham.

Whence Comes the Name

Of SOZODONT? It is derived from two Greek words signifying "to preserve the teeth;" and it deserves its title, for there is no preparation which will do this more rapidly, surely and pleasantly. The consumption of SOZODONT is immense.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1885.

THE VOICE OF IOWA.

Republicans of Iowa have published a platform which is characterized by force and directness of expression. The resolution on the liquor question is fitted to the local aspects of that question in Iowa, but in other respects the platform expresses the general republican sentiment of the country. There is an originality in its composition which distinguishes it from hackneyed deliverances. Thus: "The issues growing out of the war never can be called settled till they are settled right. By usurping and absorbing the rights of disfranchised colored men the white men of the southern states are exerting double the political power of white men in the northern states." Again: "The republican party declares, in the interest of honest and safe government, that there cannot be political inequality maintained among citizens of a free republic, and that there cannot be a minority of the white men of the south ruling a majority of the white men in the North."

Of course the democratic response to this will be "sectional hatred" and "the bloody shirt." The same was the response against the iniquities of slavery. But, as the Boston Journal well remarks: "If sectional prejudice is to be charged against the republican party because it insists upon equal political rights in every section of the land, it is not the fault of the republican party."

It is emphatically true that no question of this sort ever can be said to be settled till it is settled right. The democratic position now is that it is hateful, unpatriotic, hardly less than a crime, to insist on equal political rights, a free ballot and a fair count. The parallel is an exact one between this assumption and that with which we were made so familiar during the old contest against the iniquities of slavery. The man who spoke against those iniquities was actuated by sectional hatred, he was not a patriotic citizen, his protest against the slave-whip was a "bloody shirt" appeal, and, as he was a person engaged in fomenting strife between the sections there was a long and vigorous effort to howl him down.

Now the republican party is not going to be howled down upon its appeal to the country against the present attitude of the South in relation to political rights and elections any more than it was howled down in the days of its protests against the iniquities of slavery. Till it be settled whether the constitution and laws of the United States, designed to secure equal political rights, including a free ballot and a fair count, mean anything or not, this protest will be at the front as the leading issue of national politics. Iowa republicans give voice on this subject to the republicanism of the whole country.

THE GERMAN-SPANISH DISPUTE.

The dispute between Germany and Spain about the Caroline islands comes in merely as "a topic of the day," when topics of real interest are rather few. These islands form one of the great archipelagoes of the eastern Pacific ocean. They lie between the Philippines, the Ladrones, the Marshal islands and the great island of Papua, or New Guinea. Ruled by many petty chiefs, they are really independent, and are noted for commercial enterprise. Lying three degrees only north of the equator, their climate is tropical and some of them are very productive. They extend from east to west for a distance of about [illegible] miles and are divided into numerous groups. Though they are more than [illegible] in number, the area of all of them combined is less than 1,000 square miles.

These islands were discovered in 1543 by Spanish navigators and were named in honor of Charles (Carolus) V., then king of Spain and emperor of Germany. Spanish domination has never been established over the islands, which have been held merely as a nominal possession of Spain. In 18[illegible] England took possession of the archipelago, but the claim appears to have been relinquished. The exact basis of the German claim has not yet been announced to the world. Whether it goes back to some figment of the time of Charles V., or depends on recent occupation, does not yet appear.

These islands have quite a large population, considering their area. Geographers, however, differ in their estimates as to the population. Some say it exceeds 100,000, while others think it no more than 30,000. But the numbers are not important, since such a population is not valuable, though perhaps it is the more valuable upon the lower estimate.

Proximity of the Caroline islands to the Philippines and Ladrones, undoubtedly Spanish possessions, brings them almost within Spanish seas. From the Philippines, named in honor of Philip II., son of Charles V., a sort of nominal guardianship has been asserted over the numerous islands of the Caroline group, but no form of administration has been extended over them. No fortress or flag, no visible token of the sovereignty of Spain, has ever been maintained there. The fact that they have remained without occupation during the 350 years that have elapsed since their discovery, would seem to show that they are scarcely worth quarreling about. No doubt the dispute between Germany and Spain will be settled by arbitration. Germany expresses a willingness to submit the case to this mode of settlement, and since Spain is in no condition to go to war with Germany it is probable she will feel it necessary to assent to the proposition.

The Sunday [illegible] organ of the president at Washington city tells how "civil service reform" is getting along in Ohio, and how the democrats of that state, who had been dissatisfied because they were not getting the offices fast enough, were induced to "endorse" the administration. When Senator Payne, of the coal oil branch of democracy came back from Europe a short time ago, he saw how matters stood and sat down with his private secretary and wrote out a list of republican officials all over the state who were to be butchered to make a democratic holiday. This list he sent on to Washington by his secretary, with a "statement," and heads at once began to fall. Among the postmasters especially the guillotine was worked vigorously. By the time the convention met the democrats had begun to be in good humor. The administration was doing [illegible] better than they had been expecting, and they cheerfully "endorsed" it, with every assurance that they would get the remainder of the offices very soon. And they are getting them. N. B.—This is reform. Even the mugwumps are beginning to see it.

The supreme court of Iowa has decided that a sick man has a right to diagnose his own case without the intervention of a physician and has the right to prescribe for himself. This seems to lead many to prescribe alcohol in its various forms. Thus, Iowa druggists make monthly reports of liquor sales. Great numbers of invalids who doctor themselves seem to believe in alcoholic treatment. For instance, a small dealer in Muscatine, where all the saloons [illegible] are favorable, finds that it takes [illegible] paper to enumerate his sales [illegible]. He sold as medicine 12 barrels of beer, [illegible] of whisky, 1 of gin, [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] of brandy. Iowa is becoming the most [illegible] state in the Union. Isn't it time for this farce to end? Either the prohibitory law should be repealed or this "prescription" business and "drug store" traffic should be suppressed.

Mr. S. A. Clarke is copyrighting his articles that are running in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN under the title of "Pioneer Days." He is intending to issue soon a volume of these personal sketches, which he will take pains to revise and render accurate. There is much in them that is not elsewhere preserved, much that would have been in a few years more entirely forgotten. The persons from whom reminiscences of this kind can be derived are fast passing away. Mr. Clarke, in saving some of this valuable material from the wreck of time, is doing a good work. The articles are adding greatly to the interest of THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN. Readers will note that THE SUNDAY is now sent as a premium for six months to every new subscriber and to every person renewing his subscription to THE WEEKLY, upon payment of $2 50, or both SUNDAY and WEEKLY are sent for one year to any address for $3. These offers are both open till January 1, 1886. Mr. Clarke's articles are to be continued in THE SUNDAY, as are those of the many other original writers who have contributed to it during the past year. Engagements are also being made with other writers, and the paper, in addition to its great characteristic features, gives all the news of the day. Nothing so excellent and so cheap has ever been offered on the Pacific coast as THE SUNDAY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN, under this combination. The matter is wholly different in each paper, and each paper is a complement of the other. The matter in THE SUNDAY does not appear in THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

THE SCHOOLS AGAIN.

The question brought up by two or three articles printed in this journal recently, on the primary course in our public schools, is one of the widest public interest. Social economists, the friends of education and the payers of taxes are interested to know if the public educational effort is being wisely applied and if the public money is being spent for things really practical and useful. Parents are interested to know if their children are being properly taught or if they are wasting their time on worrying and useless tasks. All over the state people are looking into the school course and through the local papers we hear many words of criticism in line with the utterances of this journal. In the smaller towns the evil is greater even than in Portland for there, through the practice of changing teachers each term or each year, they have many "systems," while we have but one. From several editorial expressions on this subject, we select one from the Yaquina Mail of the 26th inst:

> We think with THE OREGONIAN that our educational system is getting too high for any use. There are text books in use in the public schools of Oregon for children of 10 years and under that we will undertake to puzzle any supreme judge in Oregon with.
> Of what earthly use can it be to teach children of that age the physiological reason for sounds of words when physicians don't know them and don't want to. We have linguals, palatals, gutturals and all the other sounds, and a child of tender years is expected to learn whether he ought to use his tongue or his palate to ask for what he wants. Bosh, gentlemen, all bosh. They don't learn it and if they do it will do them no good. Every schoolmaster nowadays is a professor. Many of them are cranks. They all have a system and about the time the school term closes the children have possibly learned that there was a system and it related to figures, etc., and so they remain until the next term when another crank comes along with a system. The so-called improvements in our public schools have not been for good. There are many things in this world that are not bettered by change, and among them is certainly the method of imparting a knowledge of the three R's in a common school.

We must call the attention of the parents and tax-payers of Portland again to this very important subject. We ask them to look into the matter themselves by keeping familiar with the school work of their children, and by noting the slowness with which they learn the simple elements—reading, writing and spelling. The particular faults of the primary course in Portland are these: It devotes to "discipline" time that could be given with better results to instructive drills. It devotes the time and vitality of the teachers to the work of the "system," instead of to the work of teaching. It burdens the minds of children with memorizations, which they cannot understand and which, if perfectly intelligible, could do children no practical good. The time consumed in the primary rooms is too long by nearly half, and when children have finished the primary course they are not able to read intelligently, write fairly or spell correctly. We submit these charges to the parents of this city.

THE PAMBRUN CASE.

Some time ago an old man named Pambrun who had been living on the Umatilla Indian reservation was ordered off, and to stay off, by the direct authority of the interior department. He left, but returned in a short time and was arrested and taken before Judge Deady for trial. The law clearly and definitely prescribes the penalty for this offense. Under it Judge Deady fined the culprit $1000. He was sent to jail, but at the end of thirty days was set free under the law, which prohibits the imprisonment of judgment debtors. Pambrun immediately returned to the reservation and has been arrested again. The East Oregonian, with small wisdom and less propriety, makes this matter the subject of a screed in which the United States court and Judge Deady come in for a full share of vulgar abuse. It is the business of the United States court to apply the law in the cases brought before it. Judge Deady could not have done more nor less than he did, and the East Oregonian ought to know it. Yesterday Pambrun was fined another thousand dollars and was again sent to jail, where he will stay another thirty days. The court, acting under the law, will have to impose this penalty as often as Pambrun is brought before it. It is a pity that there is not some way to make the old miscreant work out his fine. He belongs to a class of low scrubs who would rather live degraded lives about Indian camps than respectably with his own race, and is a persistent trouble breeder on the reservation.

The [illegible] presents the silver side of the argument on the subject of overproduction, dissenting from the opinion that low prices and hard times are results of the production of too many commodities. It says: "It is not over production, which is but another word for plenty that is pinching us. The real thing that is lacking is confidence. The rich are afraid to buy railroads, mines, factories and lands, notwithstanding these are cheap, because they feel certain that prices will go lower. They feel certain of this because they are convinced that the bankers of England will force the contraction of the world's metal money to gold alone."

It is in order to remark, before the president's letter of August 1, supposed to have been written to a citizen of Oregon, drops out of mind, that the letter is a rough and coarse production, that really ought not to have been written, in the form and tone it bears, by a president of the United States. A president ought to know how to administer a rebuke without being coarse, extravagant and ill tempered in speech.

An official at Washington, of considerable prominence, (name not given), said a few days ago in a conversation about the letter which is supposed to refer to Dr. Dawne, "You will read Mr. Bush's indignant denial of its authorship within a few days." This from a Washington dispatch published by the Minneapolis Tribune.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.—There was a collision in the river just below Ash street wharf a few minutes before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon between the steamers Mountain Queen and Lurline. The Lurline had just left her wharf at the foot of Alder street with passengers and freight for Vancouver, and the Mountain Queen, which was then being used as the O. R. & N. Co.'s transfer boat, was just leaving Ash street wharf with the passengers for the Atlantic express. The Lurline had gotten under full headway and the Mountain Queen was backing out into the stream, preparatory to turning down the river. The Lurline struck her port side about amidships against the wheelhouse of the Mountain Queen, the heavy timbers of the latter crushing in the side of the Lurline's house between the lower and upper decks to an extent of twenty or thirty feet. The damage done to the Mountain Queen was slight, consisting only of a few boards torn off the wheelhouse. The owners of the Lurline estimate the damage to their boat and cargo—there were four boxes of glassware broken, some sacks of salt spilling and a roll of wall paper torn—at $250. Capt. Gray of the Lurline put back to his wharf [illegible]. After learning the extent of the damage and finding that there was no danger to the safety of the passengers and cargo, [illegible] to the inspector of steam vessels, Capt. Gray started once more for Vancouver, returning again this evening for repairs. As usual in such cases each captain thinks the other to blame for the accident. Capt. Gray states that when opposite the upper end of Columbia dock he noticed the Mountain Queen backing away from her wharf and he blew one whistle. This was answered by the Queen, which, however, still continued backing. Capt. Gray then blew a whistle again which was not answered. He says that noticing the Queen still backing, he then stopped his engines and put her wheel hard starboard, but too late to prevent a collision. The captain of the Queen says when he reached midstream he stopped his boat and turned the wheel ahead, but that before the boat began to move the Lurline came down the river at full speed and ran into her.

STUDYING THE INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSION.—Mr. I. W. Wilhelm of Washington, D. C., special agent of the bureau of labor, department of the interior, is in the city. He comes under direction of Hon. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, who with a large corps of assistants is making a study of the present industrial depression. The investigation of this subject involves the question of the influence of depression on the cost of living, the extent to which the industries have been developed and the cost of production reduced through the use of machinery in the great industrial centers and the difference in rates of wages in like industries in different localities of the United States, the influence of taxes on all matters relating to living and as to industrial depressions, how far consumers may be influential in such matters, the productivity of labor in various localities, the influence of distribution and transportation, of foreign immigration and the employment of foreign contract labor in bringing about depressions where industrial, commercial and financial conditions have preceded such depressions, and whether large importations or exportations, or extensive railroad building, etc., have preceded them. Mr. Wilhelm will spend several days in Oregon.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A BOY.—On Thursday afternoon Johnnie Murphy, a lad aged 8 years, the son of Dennis Murphy, keeper of the O. R. & N. Co.'s boatyard below the city, met with an accident that terminated fatally yesterday morning. He had just closed a large gate on the boatyard premises and it fell upon him. The gate, which is large and heavy, did not swing, but hung on rollers which moved in a narrow groove. These rollers must have sprung from their place allowing the gate to topple. The lad saw the gate coming over and attempted to escape, but was not quick enough. His injuries were terrible. One of the timbers struck his head, cutting a gash from above the eye to the back of the head, laying the skull bare. His left leg from the knee down was mangled and the bone crushed to fragments. Drs. Henry E. and William Jones were summoned to the little sufferer, who was conscious and bore his pains with remarkable fortitude. The wounds were dressed, and everything that could be devised to allay suffering he received, but he did not recover from the shock and sank peacefully to his long sleep. Johnnie was a bright, manly, intelligent lad, the pride of his parents and the friend of hundreds of river men who knew him.

THE SEPTEMBER WEST SHORE.—The September number of The West Shore just issued is one of much interest both artistically and in its literary features. It contains numerous handsome engravings, among them being two specially fine groups of pictures. One of these is entitled "The New Tea Route" and the other "The Cow and the Cowboy." A most excellent portrait of S. T. Hauser, the new governor of Montana, is presented, also numerous other engravings. The letter press is of more than usual interest, and embraces the first of a series of interesting articles on "Old and New Japan," a narrative of an ascent of Mt. Rainier, articles descriptive of the subjects illustrated and the usual quantity of interesting and instructive matter. The publication seems to improve steadily in spite of the hard times. It exhibits an enterprising spirit and appreciation of the wants of its thousands of readers that enables it to maintain a front rank among illustrated periodicals. A splendid Portland edition is promised soon.

FILED FOR PROBATE.—The will of the late Margaret M. Garrigan of East Portland has been filed for probate in the county court. It provides that her body be buried in a cemetery near Berkeley, California, and a $500 granite headstone above her grave. The second provision gives to John D. Boest of East Portland $500 and to the infant son of Clark and Viola Davis of the same city $100, both amounts to be paid from proceeds of the sale of two lots in Holladay's addition. To her sister Mrs. Catharine E. Brady of Charlestown, Massachusetts, is bequeathed the remainder of her estate, both real and personal. Among the real property thus bequeathed is the north half of block 108 in East Portland, three lots and house corner of West and Thirty-fourth streets in Oakland, California, and one lot on Thirty-first street in that city. Dr. C. F. Nottage and John DeBoest, of East Portland, are named as her executors without bonds.

A SINGULAR POTATO.—Mrs. John Henricle of No. 401 Tenth street discovered in the potato bin in her cellar a few days ago a most singular freak of nature in the potato kingdom. The tuber in question—a rather good sized one, of last year's growth—had evidently been much dissatisfied at the idea of drying up in a dark cellar and neither being eaten or planted out in the ground to reproduce its kind after the common fate of most of its species. So all by itself in the dark its indignation rankled and it sprouted and swelled and burst in no less than four places and in each of these cracks a tiny new potato began to live until when found there were sticking out from the sides of the old dried black tuber four bright, smooth and red new potatoes, perfectly formed, the largest nearly six inches in circumference. It is probably the most vigorous effort ever made by a potato to perpetuate its species.

TAYLOR STREET METHODIST CHURCH.—To-morrow being the last Sabbath of the present conference year, in the absence of the pastor, instead of the regular services a grand public song service will be held in the auditorium of the church at 11 o'clock A. M., in connection with the young people's society of the church. In the evening at 7:45 o'clock promptly the Sunday school concert will be given at the same place. These monthly concerts constitute a pleasant feature of the Sunday school, and no efforts will be spared to make this the crowning occasion of every pleasant and prosperous Sunday school year. Admission free, and strangers as well as the general public will receive a cordial welcome to these agreeable and entertaining exercises.

DEDICATED TO THE CITY.—The extension of South street between East Park and Seventh streets will now be improved by the city. This section of the street, of which there is no previous known dedication to the city, was held by Mr. W. Ehlund [illegible]. In consequence objection [illegible] the proposed improvement on the ground that the city had no ownership in the land in question. The adjacent property owners, who of course were desirous of having the street improved, had a conference with Mr. Ehlund, the result of which has been [illegible] adjustment of the [illegible]

[illegible] PASSING ON [illegible] RESERVATION.—[illegible] yesterday morning [illegible] Pamborn, when arraigned on a charge of trespassing on the Umatilla Indian reservation after having been directed to keep off from the same, entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $1000 by Judge Deady, the penalty prescribed by law for such an offense, and being unable to pay any part of the fine was taken back to the county jail. At the end of thirty days he can regain his liberty, that being the extent of the imprisonment provided when a prisoner cannot pay his fine. This is Pamborn's second offense.

TO-DAY'S REGATTA.—All the [illegible] and the colors to be carried in to-day's aquatic sports will be found in the double column advertisement on the second page of to-day's OREGONIAN. It will be well for spectators to cut the programme out for reference during the contest. All races will end at the foot of Pine street and two of them will start here. Colonial wharf, which will be used as a grand stand, is under the management of the Portland Rowing association and the proceeds from admission fees will be devoted to the depleted treasury. Gentlemen and ladies $1, means that by paying $1 a gentleman may bring as many ladies as he wishes.

SPECIMENS FROM THE SUMMIT MINE.—Fred [illegible] received this week some fine specimens from the Summit mine, in the Hogan district, about [illegible] miles east of Baker City, midway between that place and the Pine creek mines. The mine has been worked for seven years in a primitive fashion with arastras. It is opened out on [illegible] from 100 to 200 feet below the surface, having a lode over three feet in thickness. The specimens received range in value from $45 to $1000 per ton. Heretofore the mine has been worked by the present owners for the free gold in it, though it is rich in [illegible].

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—Yesterday evening Dick [illegible] beat a Chinaman in a most brutal manner at the corner of Sixth and Jefferson streets. He was riding along in his wagon when the Chinaman [illegible] him for $1.25 which he owed the Celestial. [illegible] jumped from his wagon, knocked the Chinaman down and seizing a rock, began beating the prostrate heathen's face. He then drove off. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

ODD FELLOWS' PICNIC TO-DAY.—The transfer boat connecting with trains on the Oregon Railway & Navigation company's road for the Odd Fellows' orphans home will leave Ash street wharf at 10:30 A. M. and 2 P. M. to-day, returning 5:30 P. M. There will be all sorts of innocent amusements and a practice game of lacrosse by members of the new club. A prettier place for picnic grounds is not to be had anywhere and the proceeds go to a good cause.

TO-MORROW'S RACES.—The great $500 match running race between Winters and Jim Lask, three-quarters of a mile and repeat, takes place at City View park to-morrow. Besides this great event, there will be a trotting race, best two in three, between Emma Boon, Wm. Glassford, Fowler and W. S. Laddie. Steamers leave the foot of Morrison street between 1 and 2 o'clock and returning leave the park at 5 and 6 o'clock sharp. Tickets are 50 cents, including transportation and admission to the grand stand.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—About 6 o'clock last evening Monroe Hamblin, who was evidently insane, tried to jump into the Willamette river from the foot of Washington street, but was prevented from doing so by several bystanders, who had quite a struggle to hold him. He was taken to the city jail and locked up for the night. Hamblin lives in South Portland and when able to do so works at the carpenter's trade.

BASE BALL SUNDAY.—To-morrow the Stars and Portlands play again at the Oaks. The game was at first arranged for to-day, but owing to the regatta coming off this afternoon it has been decided to play Sunday instead. The Stars have had two weeks rest and feel confident of [illegible] the Portlands to-morrow.

THE EAST SIDE.

COMMITTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

George Barker, who was sent to the county jail the other day for an unprovoked assault on H. Lead, was yesterday brought from the jail and arraigned before Justice Coleman for assaulting and battering Constable Thorn while arresting him for the former offense. BASEBALL DECISIONS

Questions having arisen about certain points in the game between the Portlands and Stars at Vancouver on the 2d of August, queries were propounded to the Clipper, with the following result:

R. H. T., Portland.—The Star club was entitled to the game according to your statement. The umpire was wrong in reversing his decision. See reply to Baserunner, Portland. 3 and 4. The umpire alone can decide whether the ball was momentarily held by the catcher. 5. The umpire was not justified in deciding the batsman out on three strikes after he had decided two men out as forced, the batsman being missed on three strikes.

BASERUNNER, Portland.—1. The umpire having first decided two men out as forced, could not reverse his decision and declare the batsman out on strikes. 2. The umpire can change the decision if he finds he was in error. 3. See answer to R. H. T., Portland.

Evidently two statements of the case were presented to the Clipper in the answer to Baserunner. It is very hard to reconcile answers 1 and 5.

THE HAIR INVESTIGATION

Conclusion of the Hearing of the Evidence by the Council Committee—No Report Yet—Opinions of Individual Members.

The investigation of the charges against Capt. Hair by the council committee on health and police was continued last evening, further evidence being introduced on behalf of Capt. Hair.

Chief of Police Parrish testified that he had spoken to Mr. Fry telling him that if he had anything to say against the captain to come over to the station and make his charges. He did not come.

Capt. Hair then took the stand and told the story of the girl being brought to the station. He said: "Mr. Fry came there and abused the girl, the latter saying she was afraid to go with her father. I told him I would take the girl home with me, upon which he got excited and raised his cane over my head. I took hold of him by the arm and told him I would have to lock him up if he didn't behave himself. I did not advise her not to go with her father, but just the contrary. I did not use any violence in putting him away from me. I took hold of the arm with which he raised the cane so that he could not strike me. I tried to talk with Mr. Fry about his daughter next day but he wouldn't talk with me. Not knowing what to do with the girl, there being no charge against her, after consultation with the chief we let her go."

[illegible] testified to hearing the girl say she wouldn't go with her father.

The case was then submitted without argument. The committee immediately repaired to an inner room where they held a short session with closed doors. When they came out they announced that no conclusion had been reached and that their deliberations would be concluded at the regular council meeting next Tuesday, when they would report to the council. Councilman [illegible] said they had talked over the testimony somewhat and while they believed that Mr. Fry in his weakness of mind and in the affliction placed upon him by his daughter's conduct had much exaggerated the conduct of Captain Hair and any grievances that might have arisen therefrom, yet the latter had undoubtedly been overbearing in his actions and his treatment of the old man, who was as harmless in his threats as a child. Policemen were not employed to act in such a manner and should not be permitted to do so. He did not say what ought to be done in the case now before the committee.

Councilman Andrus, when asked his personal view of the evidence adduced in the investigation, said he couldn't see much in the case.

BOARD OF SCHOOL DIRECTORS

A regular meeting of the board of school directors was held last evening in the council chamber, all members being present.

A communication was received from Miss Della Cole tendering her resignation as a teacher in the Harrison street school. This was accepted and Miss Alice Davey was elected to fill the vacancy.

The issuance of warrants was authorized as follows: C. [illegible] DeBurgh $2.00; John Malitt & Co. $31.

CLAIMS PAID.

The following bills were ordered paid:

H. L. Darr	4 75	P. G. Baker	6 10
Insurance	253 00	John Malitt & Co.	2000 00

A claim of $411.80 of John Malitt for extra work on the new high school building was referred back to the architect and the latter requested to show what authority he had for ordering such extra work.

An American flag twenty feet long and a streamer were received as a gift from J. P. O. Lownsdale and son to be floated from the flagstaff over the western entrance to the high school building, which is known as the Lownsdale primary. Adjourned.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK Aug 28—Governments [illegible] prices heavy. Railroad bonds were quite active to-day. For the general list there are more advances than declines. It is stated that Villard has completed the sale of another block of Northern Pacific securities in Germany, the sale being contingent, however, upon the showing of satisfactory earnings by the company. Stocks to-day have been unusually dull and featureless. At the opening this morning prices were strong. In early dealings there was a very slight advance from first prices [illegible] by a reaction amounting to as much as 1 per cent in two or three cases and fractional amounts for the rest of the list. After midday the market became exceedingly dull and steady, but with a slight tendency upward and [illegible] continued [illegible] late hour, when there was a decline of [illegible] followed by a reaction of [illegible] in closing transactions. TALK ABOUT THAT LETTER.

In order that readers of THE OREGONIAN may [illegible] article was which was published by the Washington Post and which was said to furnish [illegible] the letter of which so much has been said as written by Mr Bush of Salem we reproduce it in this issue. It will be found on examination to consist of a lot of gabble, much of it very indefinite. Some of the statements relating to Oregon affairs are inaccurate and the whole evidently comes from a source of unforgiving hostility to Mr Bush on account of his refusal in days long gone by to stand in with the proslavery secession bedrock democracy who have always constituted the life of the party here. After reading this article one will observe that the question as to who wrote the letter is still an open one.

Notwithstanding a seemingly impenetrable barrier of secrecy and silence, the individual to whom the president's scathing letter of August 1 was addressed has at last been run to ground. Circumstantial evidence of weight sufficient to convict him before any jury of twelve good men and true has been brought to bear upon the culprit, and he stands forth as the only man to whom under the circumstances the letter could have been written.

Tuesday, [illegible] Edward J Dawne, a prominent lawyer and leading citizen of Portland, Ore, was appointed by the president to be United States judge for the district of Alaska, after a diligent and deliberate scrutiny of a formidable and favorable list of indorsers of presumably unimpeachable standing. Wednesday, July 22 the news of Judge Dawne's appointment was published in the Portland papers. Thursday, July 23, the Portland papers reached Salem. On Friday, July 24 the now celebrated letter to the president was written and mailed by a resident of Salem. Friday, July 31 the letter made its long journey across the continent and arrived at the White House. Saturday, August 1 the president, at white heat with indignation, indited his famous reply, and a few days later it became public through the columns of the press.

Who was the person who thus bared his back to the most scathing denouncement and political castigation ever inflicted on mortal, and what were the motives which prompted to such self humiliation and abasement and to confess such depths of seeming ignorance and treachery? His signature (No. 21) in a long list of endorsers appended to Judge Dawne's application appears on file in the department of justice. It is A. Bush.

In the presidential campaign of 1860 Bush was a bright, pushing man who had acquired great prominence and influence in democratic councils. A few years before this Edward D Baker, the personal friend of Broderick, who had fought an unfortunate duel with Judge Terry, had removed from California to Oregon, where his fine presence, personal magnetism and intrepid bearing had immediately placed him at the front rank of the just growing republican party. Around him rallied the republican party of the legislature and to him at last came the Douglas democrats led on by Bush, who plied whip and spur through the columns of the influential Statesman. Baker was elected United States senator only to fall a few months later in the battle at Ball's Bluff, Va. But Bush's assistance in aiding the election of Baker sealed his political doom. He was forced from the control of the Statesman and finally lost his grip on politics. He went into business and is now a banker and the wealthiest man in the state. In 1872 the office of superintendent of public instruction was created by an act of the Oregon legislature with a salary of $1500. The office was elective and Gov. Grover appointed a young man named S. C. Simpson to take the office until the election, which was to occur in 1874. In 1874 Mr E. J. Dawne, a teacher in the state agricultural college at Corvallis, after a sharp contest defeated Simpson for the democratic ticket, was successful by a small plurality. Simpson and his friends cut Dawne's name and defeated him by a plurality of fifty votes. This action on the part of Simpson caused hard feeling between Dawne and the Simpson coterie, of which Mr Bush, the banker and whilom editor and political leader, was a member. Notwithstanding this personal opposition Mr Dawne prospered. He took up the profession of law, married into a wealthy family and became the legal adviser and business manager of his father-in-law, who is reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in Portland. He moreover secured a competency for himself.

Mr Dawne was recommended by the prominent men of Oregon, irrespective of party, for the position of judge for the district of Alaska. He was particularly endorsed by the leading citizens of Portland, his home, and the neighboring city of Salem. One of his endorsers writes a private letter to the president requesting that his name be kept secret, and denouncing the appointment as one unfit to be made. Now mark the evidence that points to Mr. Bush as the one who wrote the letter. The dates of both letters denouncing Judge Dawne and the president's reply following so closely after Judge Dawne's appointment point to Salem as the source of the letter, as already shown. The letter is addressed "To the President." The inspection of four letters written by Bush to Mr Cleveland shows every one to have been addressed "To the President," out of a hundred different styles of address. The introduction of the letter attacks Judge Dawne's attainments and moral character, and at the same time makes a vigorous protest of friendship for Mr Bush, by political character and dealings [illegible] him his influence with the democratic party over twenty years ago and has many times been a manifest [illegible] in the community where he lives. "I do not know whether you are a democrat or not," writes Mr Cleveland. Bush has not been recognized as a democrat for years but has voted one ticket or the other as personal inclination or private motive directed him. "We are friends and do business with one another," says the letter. Bush is the only man in Salem with whom Judge Dawne had business dealings and who at the same time was on his papers. The chain of evidence is complete.

The letter was written to gratify the private malice of Bush against Judge Dawne, whose character and reputation in the community where he lives are unimpeachable.

MORALLY AND PROFESSIONALLY UNFIT

New York Tribune

There has been an interesting time about that unfit judge. Some weeks ago a letter from President Cleveland was published in which he stigmatized one of the judges recently appointed by himself as a man morally and professionally unfit. Some eminent citizen who had recommended this unfit person wrote to President Cleveland expressing his sense of shame and regret that he in common with other democrats of influence had signed this man's papers of recommendation, no dreaming that he would ever get a place because everybody knew he was so peculiarly and notoriously unworthy. President Cleveland wrote back that this confession "came too late to be of immediate use to the public service," and then gave the eminent democrat a piece of his mind. The mind, judging from the piece, must be a mind full of wrath and bitterness and not appreciative of the patriotism of democratic statesmen generally.

At once there sprang up a great discussion as to the name of this new judge who had thus been branded as morally and professionally unfit by the president who had appointed him. Rumor pointed to several men and thereupon investigators sought to reach a discovery by the process of elimination. The entire list of judges who had been appointed by President Cleveland prior to the date of his letter was hunted up, published and carefully scrutinized. People hoped to learn who the objectionable person was by striking from the list the [illegible] who could not possibly have been branded as unworthy and unfit. Then occurred a remarkable event. News came in succession regarding nearly every man in the list that he was so notoriously unfit morally and professionally, that the people who knew him best [illegible] President Cleveland's words must have referred to him. All this is amusing, but if the result of holding up to the light one small batch of President Cleveland's appointments is such as this what must be the character of other [illegible] Among them all how many "morally and professionally unfit" persons may there be if out of half a dozen judges nearly half a dozen appear to be of that sort.

But why does the president keep these men? One can understand the possibility of outrageous appointments if one understands the nature of democratic politicians and realizes what sort of political debts they have to pay and what sort of persons they are anxious to oblige or to get rid of. But having appointed bad men the president appears to be under no necessity to keep them. Various excuses are made for their retention, but not one meets the case. The president is able to suspend or to remove republicans who are eminently worthy and he does so on no other or better ground than that they do not neglect their political [illegible] which [illegible] their official duties. [illegible] does seem that a democrat [illegible] professionally [illegible]

The New York World produces an elaborate historical article to show that Queen Victoria has no right to the British throne and that the real heir is one Charles Stuart Tobias Walport, of Danbury Conn., who is the great-great great great-great grandson or grand nephew, it is not certain which, of James III, of Scotland, who instead of being murdered as historians have generally believed that he was, when flying from the battle of Sauchieburn, escaped, it now appears, to a place of safety, where he lived to marry and raise a numerous family from whom the uncrowned king of all Danbury is descended. When Queen Victoria reads that copy of the World she is likely to be very much pained and disappointed. The loss of her crown will be a blow to her in her old age.

Old Democratic Practices Renewed

Washington Special to Minneapolis Tribune

Before the war it was a common thing for democratic postmasters of the south to examine the mail and rifle them of all anti-slavery newspapers, pamphlets and periodicals which were thrown into the waste-basket without any deference to the law or the rights of the people. The republicans of Virginia are loudly complaining now that the same sort of outrages are being perpetrated by the new democratic postmasters in the state. They say that their papers are taken out and destroyed, their letters vexatiously delayed and they are demanding that a stop be put to these outrages. Some estimate can be made by this of the bitterness being engendered on the part of the Bourbons by the campaign in the Old Dominion.

St Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy cures pains, sprains, bruises and soreness

LEBANON NOTES

LEBANON, Aug 27

John Hamilton and wife, of East Portland, are here visiting friends.

William Roland, who was engaged in the bakery business, has sold out.

Mrs Catharine Miller and granddaughter of Iowa, who have been visiting at F M Miller's, will return home next Monday

The town council has ordered a levy of three mills on the dollar on all taxable property for the purpose of building an engine house

Large quantities of plums and prunes are going to waste. Farmers claim they can get no price for them now, and it does not pay to dry them

The warehouses on the narrow gauge between Brownsville and the Santiam are all full of grain, owing to better price of grain and less cost of storage

G T Cotton, station agent here night before last received notice of his discharge. It was a great surprise to him and all others, and is hardly accounted for on the ground of offensive partisanship

Mr Scanlin, recently from Kentucky, has erected a distillery near here and is now engaged in making plum brandy. If everything is favorable he expects next year to go into the business on a large scale

James Harrow, while working some two weeks ago in a threshing crowd, got injured by the tines of a fork, near the knee. The hurt, though slight, was neglected and blood poisoning has set in, and fears are entertained that he may lose his leg, and perhaps his life

POLITICAL EXPRESSION

Boston Herald (ind.): [illegible] party without principles [illegible] like the Ohio democrats [illegible]

St Paul Pioneer Press: The [illegible] of Mr [illegible] is an act without apology. To grant it when every fact was known was no less than infamous.

Everybody understands [illegible] that a victory in his own state this year would be a long stride on the path of President Cleveland to ward a second term.

The New York Times affirms that reports from the campaign in Virginia are encouraging. The Wise ticket seems to be more popular than was the Cameron ticket which was successful in 1881.

Louisville Courier-Journal: In Ohio things are so mixed and muddled that democrats outside care very little whether we win or lose the state, and have generally made up their minds that it is already lost.

Philadelphia Press: Aquila Jones of Indianapolis, is still prancing around inviting the mugwumps to tread on the tail of his coat, but the invitation has not been accepted. Jones is a bigger man than a whole civil service commission.

If the office holders are kept out of politics as Mr Cleveland has promised shall be done, says the New York Herald, we have no doubt that office seeking will be greatly diminished, which would be an immense gain to the country and to any party having possession of the government.

New York Tribune: The Brooklyn Eagle has finally concluded that John Roach has got the better of the government. Yes, he has, but if it is any consolation to the government it may seek comfort out of the fact that it got the better of 500 American workmen when it turned out into the street.

PYÆMIA

Is the most virulent form of blood-poisoning. Less speedily fatal, but not less certainly so, is the vitiation of the blood of which the first symptoms are Pimples, Sties, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions. When the taint of Scrofula gives warning of its presence by such indications, no time should be lost in using AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, the only perfect and reliable medicine for the purification of the blood.

SCROFULA

Is a foul corruption in the blood that rots out all the machinery of life. Nothing will eradicate it from the system and prevent its transmission to offspring but AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. This preparation is also the only one that will cleanse the blood of Mercurial poison and the taint of Contagious Diseases. Impoverished blood is productive of

ANÆMIA,

A wretched condition indicated by Pallid Skin, Flaccid Muscles, Shattered Nerves, and Melancholy. Its first symptoms are Weakness, Languor, Loss of Nerve Force, and Mental Dejection. Its course, unchecked, leads inevitably to insanity or death. Women frequently suffer from it. The only medicine that, while purifying the blood, enriches it with new vitality, and invigorates the whole system, is
